

Submitting Your Blog to Online Directories

It is the fascination of the 21st century. Blogging, we all know about it and how to do it, but we do not know where to submit it. You are probably wondering what online directories are. Online directories are web based companies that take the blogs you submit and submit those blogs on thousands of different websites. Most people would not know where to begin to find a directory. It is extremely simple to find a directory and submit a blog. What are some of the benefits of submitting your blog to one of these directories. Well to start out, you get to have your blog, basically your point of view on a topic, submitted to thousands of different sites all over the internet. The online directory will save you time, they will submit your blog to different sites for you. They charge low rates per submission.

Most directories charge below a quarter per submission. For less than three dollars you can submit at least ten blogs to one of these directories. A lot of people tend to skip the directories and try to submit their blogs on as many sites as possible. You will end up spending a lot more money on submissions by doing it yourself, a lot of sites are free, a lot of sites are not, in the end you are spending more than you should. Online directories are the all in one package, they will submit your blog to all the individual sites, they will pay all the submission fees, you do not have to worry about a thing. There is the obvious benefit of online directories, you get to have your blog on hundreds, if not, thousands of different websites. For under a quarter you get to have your blog viewed thousands upon thousands of times, Where do you find these directories? It is easy, with a simple search using your favorite search engine, you can choose from thousands of different directories. Just make sure you do your research, there are directories out there that claim to be legit, but are not legit at all. Remember when you submit your blog it only costs cents, not dollars. Be the famous blog writer you have seen in your dreams.
